

Automatic Generation of Sentiment Index: Wasserstein Index Generation Model and Education Inequality Sentiment Index

Fangzhou Xie

Department of Economics, New York University

The Main Question

How to generate a time-series sentiment index from texts that are associated with timestamps, in a fast and easy way? What happens if we track public sentiment towards education inequality throughout time?

The Main Question

How to generate a time-series sentiment index from texts that are associated with timestamps, in a fast and easy way? What happens if we track public sentiment towards education inequality throughout time?

The Main Question

How to generate a time-series sentiment index from texts that are associated with timestamps, in a fast and easy way? What happens if we track public sentiment towards education inequality throughout time?

The Main Question

How to generate a time-series sentiment index from texts that are associated with timestamps, in a fast and easy way? What happens if we track public sentiment towards education inequality throughout time?